A compact smartwatch charger with a simple yet stylish design that pairs perfectly with your compatible watch. The charger functions as a kind of docking station and has a 1 m longer cable than the original one. This gives you more freedom when choosing where to charge your band. It can be both a desk, a table and a shelf. What's more, the station is equipped with non-slip rubber pads that prevent the product from sliding on the countertop. In this way, it provides stability to the charging watch and protects it from being accidentally knocked down. In addition, the charger has spring contacts, so you can be sure that the watch adheres to the protruding connectors with perfect force. No fear of damaging the contacts in the watch. The charger is equipped with a universal USB connector, which is why the user chooses what to connect the charger to. It can be either a mains adapter, a powerbank or a laptop. The only requirements that the power source must meet are technical parameters.
