The Tough Armor Mag Series case from Spigen is the company's new cover. Its two-part construction is made of abrasion-resistant thermoplastic and a reinforcing polycarbonate frame. Inside the cover is filled with technological foam, which provides an additional layer of protection from impacts or falls of the device. The case is a perfect fit and does not restrict wireless charging. The slightly raised form of the case around the camera and screen protects it from scratches by raising the phone just above the flat surface. It features button covers and cutouts for ports. The case features a magnetic ring compatible with the MagSafe wireless charger, ensuring quick and easy charging.
